Ravello texture tiles are distinguished by their grooved lines, which can be oriented vertically or horizontally. These unidirectional lines are engineered to be installed following a specified groove direction, ensuring dynamic light and shadow effects. Adhering to the recommended installation orientation is crucial, as any deviation will lead to noticeable inconsistencies in texture and overall aesthetic.

RAVELLO HORIZON 18X36

Words become unnecessary when one's vision extends beyond the horizon. As perspectives change, boundaries dissolve, and subtleties along with shadows form a silent language of connection.

Oversized eighteen by thirty-six tiles with a linear horizon finish show that having the right perspective makes all the difference.
